Details of approval

Ratified by the board of the Department of Educational Sciences (Uvet/AHU) 2022. The course description is valid from 2022-01-01.

General information

Teaching and Learning - Extension is open to teachers, and staff with teaching assignments, at Lund University. The course is based on the framework for qualifications provided by The Association of Swedish Higher Education (SUHF). It equals one week of fulltime work, i.e. 40 hours that can be translated to one and a half higher education credits. Teaching and Learning - Extension is a project course that requires completion of the introductory Teaching and Learning in Higher Education course. The course is comprised by an individual project including planning, reading, executing the project, followed by the writing of a reflective report in English or a Scandinavian language.

Learning outcomes

The course aims to give the participant the opportunity to develop as an academic teacher in a Swedish higher education context. In order to pass the course, the participant should, in writing, have demonstrated the ability to

- reflect upon and problematise student learning in the context of a higher education teaching and learning activity, using relevant theories and research
- discuss experiences from education and teaching using well-grounded arguments

Course outline

The course is comprised of individual work on a pedagogical project. The participant chooses one of the following assignments:

- An auscultation
- An investigation into student learning
- Implementation and evaluation of a teaching and learning activity
- Arranging a seminar on teaching and learning

Assessment

In order to receive a course certificate, the report must be assessed and passed. In the event that a course participant does not complete a course within specified time limits, all course components must be submitted within three years of commencement in order for a course certificate to be issued.

Entry requirements

The course is open to employees at Lund University. It requires completion of one of the two-week introductory courses (the blended or the online version).

Course literature

The participant is responsible for searching and identifying relevant literature for the project. Literature from the introductory course can be used.
