

LUNDS
UNIVERSITET

Seminar series: Sustainable Teaching & Learning in Higher Education: Principles & Practices

All students should learn about sustainability at some point during their education, the Swedish Council for Higher Education has decided. What should be highlighted? And how?

These questions will be covered in Sustainable Teaching & Learning in Higher Education: Principles & Practices, a new seminar series on sustainability and learning held by the Division for Higher Education Development (AHU).

The series consists of four different seminars and is aimed specifically at teaching staff at Lund University, but anyone interested is welcome to participate. For those who want to count the seminar series as a course, it is possible to write a paper and receive a certificate for two weeks of work. There is also the opportunity to participate in a practical workshop after each seminar.

For more information and registration visit:
www.ahu.lu.se/pedagogisk-utveckling/

All courses and dates:

- Sustainability in Curricula
28 September 2022
Place: LUX, room C121
- Pedagogy for Sustainability –Outdoor pedagogies
27 October 2022
Place: MNO, room O104
- Pedagogy for Sustainability – Classroom pedagogies
21 November 2022
Place: MNO, room O104
- Sustainable Teachers
19 Januari 2023
Place: MNO, room O104

